

The People's Column

VOTE YOUR CONVICTIONS

One week from next Saturday the people of Texas will be privileged to go to the polls again and vote for the nominee of the democratic party. We say "privileged" advisedly, for it is a privilege to aid in naming those who shall govern us.

In years past, nominating by the democratic party in Texas meant the same as election. General elections are always held in November, to be sure, but the predominance of democrats in Texas has assured election of the nominee of the party.

When you go to cast your ballot, cast it according to your own honest convictions. If you believe a Sterling administration at Austin will be better for the state, then let nothing deter you from voting accordingly. If you believe a Ferguson administration will be better, then say so with your vote. Let nothing but the best interest of the greatest majority in govern us.

County Attorney Given Orders to File Tax Suits

County Attorney A. S. Ware, acting on a resolution adopted by the county commissioners court, is preparing to file suits to collect delinquent taxes. These suits, it is planned, will be filed for the September term of district court. According to the resolution there have been for some time large amounts of delinquent taxes owing the county, according to the records of tax collections. The court took the position that it was unfair to paying property holders to permit others to run delinquent and that an additional danger was possible impairment of the credit of the county.

In view of these facts and that the time for levying and collecting taxes for road bond purposes is close at hand the commissioners court ordered the county attorney to proceed without more delay to the collection of all delinquent taxes, filing and prosecuting suits when such action became necessary.

Pictures with a special attraction for children, pottery artistically placed, and a number of species of cacti growing from low bowls are used to give a cultured touch to this section, where readers up to and through the sixth grade will be accommodated in the future.

Additional chairs of the proper size and delight and colorful cushions are to be added for the comfort of the children, according to Miss Willie Rogers, librarian. All the best juvenile magazines of national circulation are also to be found in this department.

City Water Main System Will Be Thoroughly Cleaned

After making a survey of the city water system, City Manager R. C. Williams satisfied himself that the murkiness of the city water supply, as well as the unpleasant odor, was the result of silt and other deposits in city mains, especially in dead ends, and that the condition only could be remedied by a systematic cleansing of the mains.

A schedule will be laid out so that the main system may be cleansed, section by section, and will be made public before the work is begun, so that residents may know in advance just at what hour their water supply will be cut off while this work is being done. It is hoped that the cleansing process may be started Friday.

NORRIS GIVEN RENOMINATION IN NEBRASKA

Gore and Murray Are Nominated In Oklahoma

DEMOCRATS OF OHIO

Choose Dry Candidate; Bankhead Wins In Alabama

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Yesterday's primaries in five states showed leading figures holding their prestige with Ohio Democrats taking an inconsistent stand on prohibition, nominating dry former Congressman George White for governor. The Republicans renominated two dries, Gov. Myers Y. Cooper and Senator R. S. McCulloch without opposition. Senator George W. Norris gained the Nebraska Republican nomination over W. M. Stebbins. Arkansas gave Senator Joseph T. Robinson a 3 to 1 margin over his opponent.

Oklahoma Democrats gave blind former Senator T. P. Gore a good majority, entitling him to run against the incumbent, Republican Senator Pine. Oklahoma Democrats also nominated W. R. Murray over Frank Buttram.

Alabama Democrats nominated J. H. Bankhead, son of the former senator, for the senate.

Will Rogers Says

To the Editor of The Eagle: BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 13.—Today is another primary day. In the old days when senators were senators, why the state legislatures picked out the ones that were to run. Now they pick themselves. You put an ad in the papers saying "you believe that you are needed." Maybe it's an original idea with you but there is no way of keeping you from running. There is no qualification outside of an intention necessary. And by the way, we lost a mighty good ex-senator out here this week, James Phelan, a philanthropist, a scholar, a patron of the arts, and a gentleman. With these qualifications naturally a democrat. A fine fellow was Jimmy.

Many New Faces Will Be Seen About Capitol Regardless of How Run-Off Elections Result; Three Women Sure

Come what may in the run-off primary on Aug. 23 new faces will be seen about the State Capitol next January when the Forty-Second Legislature is convened. Regardless of who wins in the second primary a majority of the State offices will be held by new men in the position. Even the incumbents of four of the more important offices were inducted into their positions within the year. The list includes Chairman General R. L. Bobbitt, Chairman Pat M. Neff of the State Railroad Commission, Commissioner of the General Land Office J. H. Walker and Comptroller George H. Sheppard. Mr. Sheppard already has won as has Commissioner Walker. The other two have opposition.

There will be a new Governor, new Lieutenant Governor, new State Treasurer and new Commissioner of Agriculture regardless of who wins in August. S. M. N. Marrs, State Superintendent of Public Instruction and dean of administrative officers, won without an opponent and incumbents on two high court places; Chief Justice C. M. Cureton of the Supreme Court and Associate Justice O. S. Lattimore of the Court of Criminal Appeals were returned victors.

There will be few new faces in the State Senate, but a wholesale turnover in the House of Representatives with more than half of the membership succeeding incumbents. Returns to the Texas Election Bureau account for defeats for fourteen Representatives, though in some instances margins are narrow and errors in reporting returns may cause upsets in some of these races as well as some others. The list presented here is based on complete, but unofficial returns made to the Texas Election Bureau. Only three of the fifteen State Senators, whose terms are to expire, failed to stand for re-nomination. Thomas B. Love relinquished the post of Senator from Dallas to make the race for Governor. W. D. McFarlane of Graham retired to be a candidate for Congress against Congressman Guinn Williams of Decatur and A. J. Wirtz of Seguin retired to devote himself to his law practice. Representatives George C. Purl of Dallas and W. K. Hopkins of Gonzales will succeed Senators Love and Wirtz. There will be a run-off between Ben Onal of Wichita Falls and former Representative Ruben Loftin of Henrietta for Mr. McFarlane's seat.

Some changes in Senate One State Senator, Julien C. Hyer of Fort Worth, who was elected two years ago to succeed R. A. Stuart when the latter was elected District Attorney, was defeated for re-nomination and the place will be filled by Frank H. Rawlings of Fort Worth. In the race for re-election as District Attorney, former Senator Stuart was defeated by the man he defeated two years ago. Two Senators face run-offs with members of the House of Representatives and there is a likelihood that at least one of them will be defeated. Eugene Miller of Weatherford is pitted against Representative Grady Woodruff of Decatur, and Ed Westbrock of Sherman is opposed by Representative J. J. Loy, also of Sherman. Joe Moore of Greenville is opposed by Will A. Harris.

Another Senate seat will be vacant if Edgar E. Witt is nominated to the place of Lieutenant Governor. Two other State Senators who have two more years to serve, Clint C. Small of Wellington and Nat Patton of Crockett were defeated for Governor and Railroad Commissioner and will continue in the Senate.

At Least Three Women At least three and perhaps four women will have seats in the House of Representatives and Miss Margie E. Neal of Carthage will be returned to the Senate. Mrs. Helen B. Moore of Galveston will go back to the House and although Mrs. Laura Negley of San Antonio, retired, two others have been nominated. Mrs. N. R. Strong of Slocum was nominated to succeed her husband, who died last spring while the Legislature was in extraordinary session, and Mrs. Lee J. Rountree of Bryan, successor of her husband as editor of the Bryan Eagle, will succeed to a post occupied by Mr. Rountree when he died on the floor of the House of Representatives seven years ago. Mrs. Sarah Hughes of Dallas is a candidate against D. C. Bell of Dallas in a run-off.

The seventy-eight or more new members to be elected to the House in November includes several veterans in the legislative service. Lee Satterwhite, speaker of the Thirty-Ninth Legislature, who has been chosen from three sections of the State as a legislator, will go to Austin this time from Odessa in succession to Henry Webb. F. C. Weinert of Seguin, now State Tax Commissioner and former State Senator, will be a member of the House succeeding Reno Eichenrodt, the only Republican member in the Forty First Legislature. George B. Terrell, retiring Commissioner of Agriculture, who formerly served in the House, has been nominated from Cherokee County. W. R. Poage, youthful former member of the House from Waco, who two years ago was defeated for the State Senate by Edgar E. Witt, will return to the House to succeed Frank Baldwin, Waco editor, who was willing to retire after a single term. R. M. Wagstaff of Abilene is going to fill a place held nearly twenty years ago by his father, who is his law partner.

Representative J. C. Box in the Second Congressional District; Justice William Hodges in the sixth and Justice J. A. Stanford in the Tenth Civil Appellate District; State Senator Julien C. Hyer, Twenty-Eighth District, failed of re-nomination. Members of the lower house of the Legislature defeated were J. B. Snelgrove, Eighth District; J. T. Walters, Thirteenth; W. O. Williams, Fourteenth; J. W. Kinnear, Sixteenth; John M. Ackerman, Twentieth; E. P. Palmer, Thirty-First; A. S. Johnson, Thirty-Second; Joe H. Baker, Thirty-Fourth; W. B. Keeton, Forty-First; James Pavlica, Sixty-Sixth; James Finlay, Ninety-Third; A. E. Harding, 101st; O. F. Chastain, 106th; J. D. Avis, 11th.

Returns from the Republican primary were inconclusive as regards State, Senatorial and congressional races. State Republican headquarters in Dallas estimate that primaries were held in more than 150 of the 253 counties. The bureau received returns directly from fifty four counties and indirectly, through Republican headquarters from thirty-seven others, making ninety-one altogether. A number of counties cast fewer than ten votes. In some counties an election was held in only one precinct.

In the three congressional races Wurzbach led, 899 to 196, in District 14; Carlos G. Watson, 283 to 183 and 32, in District 15; Waldrop 18 to 1, in the Sixteenth. Only one county reported in the latter district. The official count will be necessary to settle these with the prospect that Wurzbach will again win in his district.

There was only one contest for State Senator, that in District 14, where returns were received from one county only, giving George S. Plants 17 and Carl Worsham 34.

In the following lists where only one name is given for an office, it is the name of the nominee; where two names are given they will go in the run-off. An asterisk denotes incumbents. Numbers indicate districts.

Beet Now Stone Was Harvested Many Years Ago

J. W. Barker brings us a turnip red beet which now looks like a big round piece of sandstone. He says that he raised the beet in his garden thirty-five years ago in Milam county near Bayville, on sandy land. It grew like any other beet, but when he plowed it up it had already turned to stone, though it was still soft. The roots were cut off by the plow, and the cut still plainly shows on the petrified beet. It is now solid rock, but preserves its shape and general appearance of the original beet. It is a real curiosity.—Nofman Star.

County Teachers
Will Meet Here
For Institute

The county institute for teachers in the rural schools of Brazos county will be held Sept. 11 and 12, according to an announcement made this morning by F. M. Vance, county superintendent. Mr. Vance said that most rural schools of the county would open about Sept. 15 and that the dates for the institute would make it possible for teachers living outside the county to attend and then remain, making unnecessary an extra trip.

There is a prospect that the teachers in the Burleson county schools will join with the Brazos force in the institute. This plan was discussed last year, when the Burleson teachers invited those of this county to meet with them. The matter will be taken up with the Burleson county school authorities shortly.

The meetings of the institute will be held at the high school building, according to present plans. Letters are out to prospective speakers and a complete program will be announced in advance of the opening session.

Absentee Voters May Cast Ballot In Runoff Aug. 23

Rules for voting by absentee voters in the August 23 run-off election for voting by residents who will be away on election day are the same as those that obtained in connection with the July 25 primary election.

During the period from twenty days before the election to within ten days before that date residents who are absent from the county and who will not have returned by election day may write for an application for a ballot, fill it out and return it to the county clerk, who will then forward a ballot which must be voted in the presence of a notary public, who will attest the fact of voting.

Residents who plan to be away on election day may go to the office of the county clerk within ten days before election and until within three days of this date and cast a ballot, which will be turned over to the election officials of his precinct three days before the election date.

All residents who are away now and who will not return before election day or who plan to be absent from the county on that date are urged to bear the above rules in mind and to arrange to cast their ballots in the manner prescribed by law.

Developing Community Leaders

Over in New Orleans there is an organization, known as the Young Men's Business Club, that has been a powerful factor for progress and development and civic betterment in the Crescent City. There is an Association of Commerce, too, an organization of older heads which is comparable to similar organizations in other cities. But the organization of the younger men not only gets behind projects of value launched by the older body, but frequently steps out to initiate and put over worth while projects of its own. Not only is it a factor of much influence but it is an organization in which leaders for tomorrow are being developed and trained.

We get a slant on this from recent news dispatches from New Orleans, to the effect that members of this organization have formed a "class among themselves for the study of better civics and better economics for their own city. They have been meeting in the home of a leader chosen by them, but the crowds got too large, and they had to move to an auditorium provided by a bank." Commenting on this the Dallas News says,

"They study their duties as citizens. They inform themselves as to the business relations of New Orleans, its basis of livelihood, its interests and its future. Thousands of questions of city growth and city planning suggest themselves naturally as falling within the range of such an investigation, and these questions are taken as they come.

"Some of these young men are college men, others are starting out in business and professional life. They expect to prosper as New Orleans prospers. They hope to profit as it improves. They want to have a part in its progress. They are interested to discharge well the duties that are to fall on their shoulders. Fortunate is any city with such strength and loyalty at its command."

This is an idea that young men of any community, Bryan for example, well might take up. There are young business and professional men in Bryan who have affiliated with one or the other of the civic organizations or luncheon clubs of the city. There are many others, young men in business, who have no such affiliation. Some of these young men have given thought to civic needs. Others, so far, have given but little consideration to these things.

But from the ranks of these young men must come the community leaders of tomorrow. In the past Bryan has not lacked for a community leadership in the emergencies that have confronted the citizenship. But there have been times when if that leadership had been a bit broader gauged, the community would have fared better. And as we look to the future, with economic and social situation and problems becoming more complex, rather than more simple, we should be able readily to realize the value of such a training class in Bryan. If the young men of this community, who propose to make this city their home and who have a desire to help fashion her future and mold her growth, would seriously consider this situation and by study and exchange of thought try to prepare themselves better for this work, the right sort of leadership for this community in days to come would be assured.

Bird Life In Danger

Last week the season during which it is lawful to shoot the white winged dove opened. According to reports from game wardens, this beautiful species of dove, formerly rather plentiful in the Rio Grande Valley, is comparatively scarce this year, though reported in greater numbers on the southern side of the international boundary line.

There is reason to believe, too, that unless more stringent measures are taken to protect this bird it soon will become as extinct as the wild pigeon, once so numerous that it traveled in numbers so great that they darkened the skies and broke huge limbs from mature trees by their weight while roosting at night. There was a time when no one would have considered the possibility of a species so numerous being exterminated, but this has happened and few persons living today can hark back to the day when they saw a wild pigeon.

In more recent years we have seen other native song and game birds driven nearer the extinction point. There was a day, not long past, when the prairie chicken was abundant on the prairies of the northwest, middle west and southwest. But though some protection measures are provided, this denizen of the wide open spaces is slowly but steadily disappearing.

The quail—the Bob White, as the bird is familiarly known—has almost disappeared from some areas of the middle west, where this wonderful game bird was slaughtered in enormous numbers year after year until it became necessary to protect it by legal means. Even such native song birds as the robin have suffered from the hunter, as it was regarded as a game bird in some southern states though scarcely ever shot in the north.

We find the same condition obtaining with regard to wild ducks and geese. Hunters still go out and still get their limit bags. But if they have been hunting many years they will admit that legal bags are more difficult to obtain, that they have to travel farther and go to more pains and trouble. And while some species of duck still seem fairly plentiful, others have almost disappeared, and the same fact obtains with regard to some species of geese. And such monarchs of the air as trumpeter swans, seen and heard frequently not so many years ago on the west coast, as they migrated between north and south, almost have disappeared.

The truth is that the most treasured species of our bird life are in grave danger of extinction, even with the protection measures now employed, and there is no question but that more stringent laws for their protection should be worked out. In most instances, too, this protection should come from federal sources as the birds most valuable and that stand in most need of protection may be classed either as migratory or song birds, or as both.

Who wouldn't rather hear the clear, high "Bob White" sounded from some field or meadow, than have the faint memory of feasting on a brace of the brown feathered beauties.

The Tuesday program was in charge of Lion Matty Bell, who presented the speaker of the hour and also Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sprague in entertainment numbers. Mrs. Sprague rendered piano solos and Mr. Sprague sang several of his famous cowboy songs, playing his own accompaniment on the guitar.

Lion W. S. Howell had as his guest, R. G. Williams, the new city manager who took office on Monday of this week. Manager Williams expressed pleasure at being a resident of our little city and solicited the suggestions, help and cooperation of the club in city affairs.

Lion C. E. Griesser, captain of the "Highbrows" introduced Luke Patronella, local groceryman, as a new roaring lion, and he was officially inducted into the den.

John M. Lawrence Jr., a member of the club who has been out for a few months, was welcomed back into the den. Lion Lawrence is a former member of the board of directors of the club.

fluence you. Forget self in the needs of the commonwealth and vote for the State that shelters and feeds you.

Vote your honest convictions. Be sure you are right, then go ahead.

The same advice is applicable for every contested office in the state, from governor down through the entire list to the most insignificant local office.

Let sentiment and prejudice guide the heathens of some blighted foreign country, but let honest judgment and clear thinking guide the people of Texas!

We have our idea as to who should be governor—and we are going to cast our ballot accordingly. In the first primary, we stated we would hesitate to assume the responsibility of naming the next chief executive from the list of eleven candidates. But now there are only two. We wouldn't shirk the responsibility for a moment—and our vote August 23 will be cast without a moment's hesitation.

ROAD CONTRACT IN MADISON TO BE LET

H. A. Turner was in Austin the past week representing the commissioners court before the highway commission and brings the good news that the contract on Highway 21 from North Zulch to the Brazos county line will be let next month. He was accompanied by Hon. W. S. Barron of Bryan and the contract from the Navasota river to Kurten will also be let, giving Madison county and Brazos county direct connection over the new route.

A bridge will be built over the Navasota river between the two counties which will shorten the distance from Madisonville to Bryan nearly 15 miles. It has been hoped that the paving contract would be let on this route in Madison county but the highway department seems to want the dirt and drainage structure built before undertaking the paving project.

It is believed by those close up to the department that a contract for paving will be let from the Trinity river to Madisonville in the near future thus connecting highway 19 with highway 75 as Houston county has the road built from the Trinity to Crockett already.—Madisonville Meteor.

Cotton Movement In County Gains In Speed Daily

Seed cotton is moving through the gins of Bryan at a rapid rate this week, with picking well advanced for the season. With the continued dry weather causing premature opening of bolls it is likely that cotton will be moved from Brazos county fields at a record early date this year.

Reports from local warehouses show the following receipts to date: Compress, 458; Union, 680; Lawrence, 240; Eden's Gin, 68 (round). Counting round bales as half-bales, the total received here to date is 1,412 bales.

City Manager R. G. Williams Takes Over His Duties This Morning; Is To Study Work Here for Few Days

R. G. Williams, new city manager of Bryan, appointed to succeed J. Bryan Miller, now city manager at Lubbock, came from Austin Sunday and was at his desk at the city hall this morning, conferring with members of the city commission and making the acquaintance of department heads and city employees.

Mr. Williams stated that he would employ the next ten days or two weeks familiarizing himself with the city and with various projects now on or contemplated. "If the citizens of Bryan will be a bit patient until I can gather up all the loose ends and make myself acquainted with the various angles of the work here, I hope to be able to get lined up for satisfactory service to the people of the city in a short time."

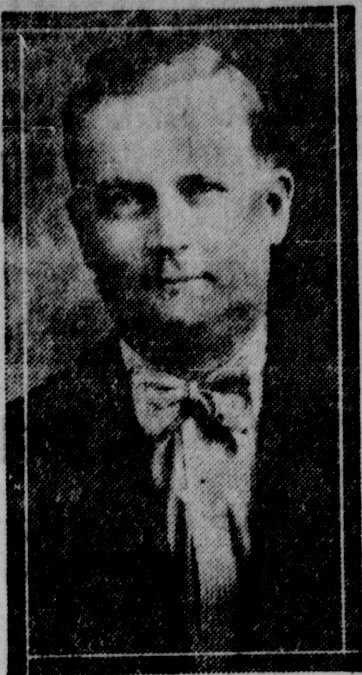

Mr. Williams comes to Bryan well recommended and with an unusual engineering experience. Since March, 1928, until he resigned recently, he was superintendent of aid projects for the state highway commission, handling all projects of the highway commission in which federal or county funds were employed, in addition to the funds of the commission. In this position he dispensed scores of millions of dollars. When he left the commission an expression of appreciation of his work was spread on the minutes of the organization, the first time, it is said, that this action has been taken with regard to an employee. Before taking this position with the highway commission Mr. Williams was connected with the United States Bureau of Roads. He served as engineer in charge of East Texas projects for a time and before that had charge of the federal activities for the state of Arkansas. Previous to his connection with the federal government, he was assistant highway engineer with the New York state highway commission.

Mr. Williams is a graduate of Armour Institute of Chicago and a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers. He is married and Mrs. Williams and their two children will come to Bryan in time for the two children to enter the public schools here.

Mr. Williams was not an applicant for the position of city manager, but came to Bryan to attend the meeting of the city commission, at which he was appointed, at the request of Bryan citizens who were familiar with his work on the state highway commission. W. S. Barron, speaker of the 41st Legislature and a representative from the 26th district, and F. L. Henderson both recommended Mr. Williams very highly and both were familiar with his work on the highway commission.

New City Manager.

R. G. Williams, formerly with the state highway commission took over his duties as city manager of Bryan this morning. He succeeds J. Bryan Miller, now city manager at Lubbock.

Roofing Company, Here Two Years, Gives Up Office

The Gulf Coast Roofing Company, of Beaumont, which has maintained offices in Bryan for the past two years, has closed its headquarters here. L. H. Williams, who has been in charge, will leave for Beaumont tomorrow, remaining in the employ of the company. Mrs. Williams and children will remain here until about the first of September.

Mr. Williams stated that while his company would still be interested in this territory, there was little likelihood that it would reopen an office here. The plan most likely to be used to get distribution, he said, would be to place the agency for the company's product with some Bryan firm.

SAILOR OF BRYAN WILL VISIT RELATIVES HERE

Mrs. Mary Ewing of Bryan has received a message from her nephew, Tom Goodson, of New York City, stating that he will arrive in Bryan tomorrow for a visit of several weeks with her and other relatives and to be with his sister, Miss Mary Goodson.

Tom Goodson was born and reared in Brazos county and since he became of age has been a sailor and has traveled many times around the world. He is on board the "Steelmaker," a merchant ship that tours the world, taking five months for each trip. Tom Goodson has made the "round-the-world" cruise on the "Steelmaker" three times.

J. E. Warren, city electrician, who accompanied Mr. Williams to the meeting, was asked about the condition of the city water. He ventured that the odor was due to the presence of natural gas in the water and that he expected the condition would improve shortly due to steps that were being taken to flush and clear the mains, especially dead ends.

John M. Lawrence Jr., county councillor and in charge of the drive for members in the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, asked that the balance due on the membership quota be paid over by the local organization, in order that this business might be wound up and the books on the campaign closed.

A visitor was H. W. Hawker of Leon county and manager of the Leone Plantation. He was a guest of H. H. Williamson and was in Bryan and at College to confer with college officials.

Directors present were: Wilson Bradley, J. S. Caldwell, F. L. Cavitt, Mit Damsby, W. S. Higgs, W. C. Mitchell, John M. Lawrence Jr., M. L. Parker, Mrs. Lee J. Rountree, H. H. Williamson and E. E. Yeager.

CITY EMPLOYE BURNED BY LIVE WIRE BETTER

Began Warren, city employee who was severely burned, from contact with a live wire while doing some repair work on city lines late last week, is about down town although suffering severely from the burns received when the lower part of his left arm formed a short circuit between wires.

That Mr. Warren escaped instant death is a source of wonderment, and the fact that the current entered his arm and left it without passing through his body is said to have been responsible for his ability to resist the shock.

Mrs. Alice Conroy has returned to her home in Bryan after a pleasant visit with her daughter Mrs. H. Hughes and family in Houston.

Appreciating Our Wild Flowers

LILY PEARL CHAMBERLIN
In Farm and Ranch

Recently I was invited to a buffet supper given by a young married woman, who lives in the edge of a neighboring city. Instead of buying flowers from a greenhouse, the hostess had decorated her tables with vases of purple thistles and the dainty blossoms of Queen Anne's lace, while in various places bowls of Black-eyed Susans lent their brightness to the rooms. The effect was beautiful, and the only cost was that of the time and labor required to pick these wild flowers from the hillside near her home.

Once at a party in a lovely home I was attracted by a large bowl of white, waxen flowers and lacy greens that formed the centerpiece for the table. Upon examination I found that the blossoms were those of the desirous bell nettle, gathered with heavy leather gloves, shorn of leaves, and placed in the bowl with the feathery leaves of carrots from the vegetable garden. The effect was quite artistic and charming.

At a luncheon in the home of a friend who sees beauty in the commonplace things of life, I observed a glass pitcher that held two or three sprays of trumpet vine flowers, with a few sprigs of dusty miller, the coral red of the trumpet-shaped blossoms forming a pleasing contrast with the gray-white foliage of the other plant. A big bowl of lavender colored flowers on the mantel proved to be common horse-mint. It was so beautiful that I had to rub my eyes to make sure of its identity.

Two years ago, when I left the flower garden that I had worked hard to create, and moved to a new place, where there was not a blossom to be had, I missed the bouquets that I had always liked to have in my house. Then, recalled the Lord's question to Moses "What is that in thy hand?" I went out to see what could be done with materials that were around me. The only growing thing was a bunch of Johnson grass that was just going to seed. I cut a number of the heads, together with some of the green leaves, and made such a graceful bouquet of them that a neighbor, seeing it on my table, asked to gather some of my Johnson grass to make her a similar decoration.

Now if we can arrange pretty floral effects from such things as thistles and horse-mint and Johnson grass, what is to hinder us from beautifying our rooms with them? And even when the thistles have blown themselves away in down, and the frost has nipped the mint and the Johnson grass, there are clusters of red sarsaparilla berries and black stretchberries, and lily-pads and pine-cones and sweetgum balls, that can be gilded and made into pretty winter bouquets that will last till spring brings again the wild flowers. Let us remember the Japanese art of arranging bouquets, and not crowd too many flowers into one bowl. A few blossoms, with suitable foliage will give a better effect than would a larger number. Sometimes a single flower in a slender vase is better than an armful would be.

There is a refining influence in the love of flowers. We are not likely to be thinking evil or unkind thoughts when we are picking or arranging them. So let us strive always to have in our homes something of their beauty upon which to rest our eyes when we have grown weary of looking upon the sordid things of life. Instead of longing for rare varieties that we cannot have, we should learn to see the loveliness in those that are so abundant that we regard them as commonplace or as pests. Let us train ourselves to see their beauty as did Wordsworth when he wrote:

"To me the meanest flower that blows can give Thoughts that do often lie too deep for tears."

Mammoth Crowd Hears Ferguson Says Bryan Man

Lamar Bethea, Bryan attorney, returned this morning from Dallas, where he attended the Ferguson rally Monday night. He stated that the crowd, estimated by himself and a number of others, among them newspapermen, at from 25,000 to 30,000 people, was the largest he ever had seen at a political meeting in Texas and was said by others present to have set a record in this respect.

"In estimating the crowd," said Mr. Bethea, "I bore in mind the football games between Texas University and Texas A. and M. College, at which we have had from 25,000 to 35,000 year after year. On this basis I estimated it would run to at least 25,000 people. Alvin Owsley, who introduced Mr. Ferguson, said a newspaper man on the platform made a similar estimate, sending him a note in which he said, 'I stepped on 10,000 feet getting to this platform.'"

The crowd, according to Mr. Bethea, was approximately one block wide and more than two blocks long. Loud speakers at the front and rear of the speakers' stand made it possible for all to hear clearly. The crowd was an exceptionally orderly one, Mr. Bethea said, and was composed largely of farmers and working men, many of whom had their wives and women folk with them. He said there were about as many women as men in the crowd.

The closing feature of the rally Mr. Bethea said, was a rendition of "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You." He said he did not know just where the music came from but that it closely followed the termination of the Ferguson speech.

Average Production of Texas Milch Cows Below That of Country; Better Breeding Needed to Improve Herds

BY NELL BENTLEY

Dairy cows on the farms of America are estimated to produce a total of approximately $4,000,000,000 worth of milk and butterfat each year of which 16 percent is consumed as fluid or whole milk, 35 percent in the manufacture of butter, 6 percent in the manufacture of cheese, 6 percent in evaporated milk and 4 percent in various miscellaneous ways.

There will always be a comparatively high demand for fresh whole milk, but the cost of containers, delivery and maintenance in that line of dairy operation leaves a narrow margin of profit at best, and each day's production must be promptly disposed of if there is to be a minimum of loss in salable stock. The foregoing statement applies to the sale and delivery of whole milk in quantities demanded for household use.

The sale of whole milk in bulk lots is found to be profitable in many cases, but profits in this case are also involved in the uncertainties of delivery systems, the fluctuations of markets and the fact that prices paid by markets for bulk deliveries of whole milk are based on butterfat content and not on the volume of liquid marketed.

Particularly in the field of farm dairying, where a herd of possibly six to fifteen cows are kept and milked in connection with general farm activities, many have found it more profitable to market either cream or butter, feeding the skim milk to chickens, pigs and calves.

The general production average for dairy cows in Texas is gradually increasing through better breeding, better feeding and better management, yet the average dairy cow in Texas is still far below the average cow for the United States taken as a whole and only a few high bred Jerseys and Holsteins in the state are approaching the world's record for those breeds. Even at that, Texas is making rapid strides in developing dairy herds and dairy markets and the farms of Texas are finding a few good dairy cows a source of profit as well as a never failing source of milk and other dairy products for the family table, without which any family is seriously handicapped in maintaining health and vigor.

Any kind of a cow would doubtless be better than no cow at all, but what many farms in Texas need is a herd of cows that are bred to profitable production of butter fat or beef gains. Recent feeding done under investigation and observation showed in figures on the slate that scrub cattle fed for beef production make their heaviest gains in intestinal fat and not in the bodily regions from which choice cuts of meat are taken, and are therefore unprofitable for both the grower and the buyer of such animals as compared with the better beef breeds that make profitable gains on proper rations and lay on the weight where meat cuts are most demanded.

When a low market price prevails for any of the principal food commodities, one may be fairly sure that there has been overproduction or deterioration of quality in that line; but there is an exception to that rule today in the low price being paid for beef cattle. With fewer beef cattle on the farms of America than at any time since about 1916, the market has declined until with the present condition of drought and feed shortage it will be surprising if fortunes are not lost among beef cattle producers during the coming months.

This decline in price is not attributed to the overstocking of cattle ranges as based on average conditions, nor to the low quality of animals being offered to the markets, but a general low ebb in the purchasing power of the average American home is attributed with having curtailed the demand for choice beef cuts and the prices paid to producers have declined in consequence of retrenchment in household expenses.

In this connection, it might be interesting to the average American citizen to know just how "Mrs. America" divides her dollar when she goes down town shopping. Statistics show that the average American household food budget is divided after about this fashion: 38 cents for meat, fish and eggs; 20 cents for dairy products and fats; 17 cents for bread, cereals and grains; 15 cents for fruits and vegetables; 5 cents for sugar and 5 cents for miscellaneous commodities.

If these figures hold a conclusion for Brazos county farmers it would be determining the lines of farm produce which are most likely to find ready sale and constant demand, and also that meat, poultry and dairy products produced at home are most effective in cutting down the living expense of the family throughout the year. It's a great argument for cows, sows and hens on the farms of Texas.

SAFE HAULED AWAY AT COLLEGE BARBER SHOP

Burglars who are said to have left no claw to their identity broke into the Y. M. C. A. barber shop at Texas A. & M. College Friday night and hauled away the safe, apparently not disturbing any other property.

According to Fred Smith, who operates the shop, the safe contained about $35 in cash and papers of some value.

Odiferous Water Caused by Silt; Clearing Mains

Residents of Bryan have complained of the condition of the city water supply during the past few days, stating that it had an unpleasant odor making it undesirable to drink and that it was dark in color. As a result many residents have obtained their drinking water from other wells or have used distilled water.

According to H. A. Burger, acting city manager, the trouble is believed due to pumping water through the mains at higher pressure than has been used, thus disturbing sand and silt that had accumulated in the pipes, especially in dead ends.

Mr. Burger stated that he was having the mains cleared as rapidly as possible, paying special attention to dead ends, and believed that the trouble would be remedied within a few days.

COUNTY WIDE CAMPAIGN ON FOR STERLING

Series Of Meetings Are Planned In Next Two Weeks

WOMEN PLAN DRIVE

To Interest the Voters In All parts of the County

Officers and members of the Sterling-for-Governor Club met this morning at the office of F. L. Henderson to prepare plans for an intensive campaign in every voting precinct of the county. Arrangements were made for meetings to be held at various points and efforts will be made without delay to have the largest possible attendance. The meeting was presided over by George A. Adams, president of the club.

The following schedule of meetings in the rural voting precincts of the county will be arranged:

Millican, Friday night; Wellborn Friday night; Steele's Store, Saturday night; Kurten, Monday night; Smetana, Monday night; Reliance, Tuesday night; Edge, Tuesday night; Steep Hollow, Wednesday night; Tabor, Thursday night; Harvey, Thursday night.

Speakers for these meetings will be assigned some time this week, before the Millican and Wellborn meetings. Such well known Brazos county orators as Judge W. C. Davis, Speaker W. S. Barron, F. L. Henderson, Judge J. T. Maloney and others will appear at these rallies in the interest of honesty in government.

Work of organizing the various voting precincts of the county, in the interest of honesty in government and in support of R. S. Sterling, candidate for governor, already has begun, following the perfection of an organization of Bryan and Brazos county women at the court house Saturday afternoon.

At that meeting, attended by about fifty representative women of the city and county, Mrs. W. B. Cline, president of the Brazos County Federation of Women's Clubs, was chosen chairman, and Miss Ida Parker, well known local business woman, secretary.

This morning chairmen for the three Bryan voting precincts were announced. They are Mrs. John Sealey Caldwell, court house precinct; Mrs. John K. Parker, fire station precinct; Mrs. M. W. Sims Jr., city hall precinct. These women will name their respective committees, to be announced in the next day or two.

The announcement also was made this morning that chairmen for the various rural precincts of the county would be named in the next day or two and steps taken for an intensive organization in each precinct, with the intention of getting out a maximum vote on Saturday, Aug. 23, the date of the runoff election.

Attend Houston Rally • Among those from Bryan attending the R. S. Sterling for governor meeting in Houston on Monday afternoon were: Hon. W. S. Barron, speaker of the house in the Forty-First Legislature; Judge W. C. Davis, judge of the 85th judicial district; Mrs. J. L. Brock, vice chairman of the Brazos County Sterling-for-Governor club; Mrs. W. B. Cline, leader of the women in Brazos county; Mrs. M. W. Sims Jr., Mrs. R. M. Dansby, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Dansby, Mrs. P. A. Tardy, Mrs. W. R. Hughes, Mrs. Lee J. Rountree, Misses Louise, Elizabeth and Ann Cline, Genevieve and W. S. Barron Jr. State Senator Gus Russek of Schulenberg, an ex-student of A. & M. College, was chosen chairman of the meeting with 25 counties represented.

Senator Russek, formerly one of the most influential Ferguson leaders in South Texas, presided after William Strauss, state manager for Mr. Sterling, had turned the gavel over to him. State Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston and others also spoke.

"Don't let indifference rob us of victory," was the keynote of Senator Russek's talk.

Commending workers for what has been done already, Senator Russek emphasized the need of organizing a Sterling club in every precinct in the state.

Warning that a "whispering campaign" was being conducted throughout the state, W. S. Barron of Bryan, speaker of the house in the Forty-First Legislature, urged that the qualifications of Mr. Sterling to hold the governor's office be stressed in lieu of devoting too much time to the menace of Fergusonism.

"While stressing the bad record of Ferguson, you are overlooking the good qualities of Mr. Sterling," he said.

Mr. Barron said that Mr. Sterling's fight for a four cent gasoline tax at a time when Governor Moody himself had acquiesced to a tax of only two cents "offsets any claims that he could be handled by the oil companies of Texas."

Mr. Sterling's fight, through the Post-Dispatch, for a higher tax on sulphur was offered as another proof of corporate interests of Texas could not "get at him."

His efforts to have the 5500 workers of the state highway department protected by workmen's compensation insurance during the last session of the legislature likewise was stressed by Mr. Barron as showing that Mr. Sterling has the "interests of the laboring masses of the state at heart."

In his address, Senator Holbrook declared that the one issue in the runoff campaign is whether Texas will "have an honest man for governor or a discredited one."

"The only way to fight the devil is with fire," he asserted, "and that's the kind of a fight we are going to put up against Jim Ferguson in this campaign. I thank God that Texas has a governor who is brave enough to tell the people what the issues are. Jim Ferguson shouts from the house-tops that the road bond issue is the real issue. That is not so. The issue is: Are we going to have an honest man for governor or a discredited man?"

Attacking the Ferguson pardon record, Senator Holbrook asserted that "more than a score of district courts declined to try any more criminal cases when Mrs. Ferguson was governor."

Other speakers were Mrs. J. W. Fincher and Mrs. H. B. Fall of Houston; Mrs. Lee J. Rountree of Bryan, recently nominated to the legislature; Mrs. W. M. Baines, W. C. T. U. leader, who said that her organization, with 1000 members, had already held six meetings for Mr. Sterling; Mrs. Roy Arterbury; Captain R. R. Lewis of the speakers bureau; Mrs. A. K. Newby; Judge W. C. Davis, district judge at Bryan; and Judge S. W. Dean of Navasota.

Miss Mary Locke of Zack was among the business farm women in Bryan today.

ORDER ISSUED WAS RECEIVED THIS MORNING

City Is Made a Flag Stop For Both Flyers

ONLY PAYING TRAFFIC

Will Be Picked Up At This Point, Says Mr. Martin

(From Saturday's Daily) The "Sunbeam," crack day trains north and south on the Southern Pacific Lines, will stop on flag in Bryan, beginning tomorrow, August 10.

This announcement was made here this morning by G. W. Martin, after he had been advised of this decision by J. T. Sullivan, general passenger agent.

In speaking of the order, Mr. Martin stated that stops would be made for "revenue" passengers and that the trains would not stop for individuals who rode on passes.

The "Sunbeam" trains have been running for approximately two years but Bryan never has been made a flag or regular stop. Some time ago College Station was made a stop and the Bryan and Brazos County Chamber of Commerce has been working on the matter of what was considered proper recognition of Bryan as a revenue producing point on the system.

The "Sunbeam" northbound leaves Bryan at 2:19 in the afternoon, making it possible to arrive in Dallas in time for dinner. The southbound train leaves here at 4:12 o'clock in the afternoon, making arrival in Houston possible by dinner time. Connections with through trains on both the Southern Pacific and other lines at both points are made more convenient for Bryan travelers by the new order.

RIGHT OF WAY FOR HIWAY 21 TO BE SOUGHT

COMMISSIONERS TO START ON WORK, BEGINNING NEXT WEEK

(From Saturday's Daily) Announcement was made this morning by County Judge A. S. McSwain that work would be started Monday on obtaining the right of way for Highway No. 21 from Bryan to the Navasota river. Blue prints of the route that has been formally approved by both state and federal engineers have been turned over to the commissioners court.

According to Judge McSwain this route will be followed without deviation unless difficulties arise in obtaining the right of way. In this case, he said, he understands that other steps will be taken in order to bring the cost of the right of way down to what is considered a just and reasonable figure.

If the right of way is secured without difficulty and in short order, it is said that a contract for work on proposed highway probably would be let in September by the state highway commission and actual construction started this fall. In a contract of this size it is said there would be opportunity for employment of many local teams and labor.
